HOOPER CASE RECESSED FOR THE WEEK-END

ALBION GAS DEALER LINKS FLEISHER TO PLOT

BY CHARLES MARENTETTE

Battle Creek, Mich., July 20. (AP)—An Albion gas station operator testified Friday that he had seen, in Albion, Sam Fleisher, one of four defendants charged with conspiracy to murder the late State Senator Warren G. Hooper, a few days before Hooper's slaying.

The witness, testifying just as the murder conspiracy trial was recessed for the week-end, said Hooper had brought his car to the station and left it for service a few days before he was murdered.

"A little later," the witness, Maurice C. Cuyler, testified, "I saw Sam Fleish (an alias used by Sam Fleisher) come across the street. I knew him. He once ran a junk business in Albion."

Cuyler pointed out Sam Fleisher at the defendants' table as the man he had seen.

Key Witness Grilled

Special Prosecutor Kim Sigler said he would show that Fleisher inquired about the car owned by the slain politician.

Further testimony was held up as court recessed until Monday afternoon.

The testimony brought to a close a session which saw the state's ace witness, a former convict, who had admitted he offered to kill Hooper for a price, undergo a hammering cross-examination by the defense.

The witness, 36-year-old Sam Abramowitz, appeared flushed and restless as he ended his appearance on the stand. Throughout the day defense counsel had flung question after question, trying to break down his story that the Hooper murder plot was laid last December in a Detroit bar. Defendants charged with the conspiracy to murder are Harry Fleisher, Mike Selik, Pete Mahoney and Sam Fleisher, brother of Harry.

Abramowitz had told of making unsuccessful trips to Albion to shoot Hooper and that upon returning to the Detroit bar after his final trip spoke to Harry Fleisher.

"I asked him (Fleisher) if there were any more chances for us to go down there and he said 'No, I guess Mike Selik and I will have to go down and do it ourselves'," Abramowitz said.

"Got Someone Else"

"Where were you when you first heard about the Hooper murder?" he was asked by Maurice Walsh, counsel for Selik.

"I was in Flint. I got up late in the afternoon and was at a lady's apartment and heard the story about 6 p. m. over the radio. I went back to my place and got rid of some letters and addresses I had, and the night of Jan. 11 or 12 I went down to see Harry Fleisher.

"I told him, 'Well, I see it was done. Did you and Mike Selik do it?'

"Harry said 'No, they must have got someone else.'

"I told him the description of a big man and a little man fitted him and Selik and he said, 'No, it was someone else.' He said Mike was out of town, had gone to St. Louis."

FILM CHARACTER DIES

Hollywood, July 20 (AP)—Filmland today lost one of its best-known portrayers of bombastic businessmen, 80-year-old George Barbier.

Barbier died last night at his home. Educated for the ministry, he turned to a stage career after a small part in a seminary play. He had appeared in more than 750 stage roles and had worked for all of the major movie studios.

Ickes Sends U.S. Coal To Europe; Home Front To Feel Pinch In Fuel

Washington, July 20 (AP)—Secretary Ickes announced plans today to send 6,000,000 tons of bituminous coal to Europe by January 1, confronting the nation with the probability of the most drastic home heating fuel cuts of the war.

"The shipment of coal to the devastated countries of Europe is imperative in order to forestall disaster which the people of Europe would not accept suplinely and without disorder," the solid fuels administrator said.

Very roughly that amount of coal represents a year's supply for 1,000,000 American homes.

No definite allotments have been made.

The worsening coal situation both at home and abroad presented these probabilities:

1. Industry, with the probable exception of the utilities and the railroads, will be cut back an undetermined amount from previous allotments.

2. Home consumers who have been getting along on 80 per cent of normal prewar needs—much of it in substitute fuels—may have to get along on less.

3. Rail carriers, already heavily burdened with emengency freight, will be called upon for greater exertions to move coal to east coast shipping points.

4. The army must act, one way or another, on a pending plea by Ickes to release at least 30,000 of the 130,000 miners now in uniform in order to increase our own domestic output. Ickes said today that increasing production here through the employment of more miners is the "only sure way to avoid * * * disaster in Europe and further distress at home."

He added that the only source of additional miners is the army.

His announcement today followed a request to conservation directors of 25 states including Michigan, to launch local drives to get the people to "prepare for winter" this summer.

The states are among those where fuels supplies now under regulation are used to the greatest extent.

SHANGHAI DOCK AREA BLASTED

Raids To Knock Out Jap Air And Shipping Center Continue

Manila, Saturday, July 20 (AP)—More than 200 Far East air force bombers and fighters lashed airdromes and docks at Shanghai Wednesday for the second straight day, headquarters announced today.

Continuation of full scale raids to knock out the largest Japanese-held air and shipping center in China brought attacks on five airdromes by close formations of Liberator heavies, Mitchell mediums, and attack-bombers.

The Seventh Air Force heavy bombers dropped 100-pound general purpose bombs on Woosung airdrome on the banks of the Yangtze, causing three fires. Smoke rose 6,000 feet.

Sixty-two Mitchells bombed and strafed Tachang airdrome northwest of Shanghai and Tinghai air field, near the entrance of Hangchow Bay.

Woosung was hit for the second time by another group of heavies, which then pounded Kiangwan's six runways and the hangar area.

One grounded enemy plane was destroyed in this attack.

Two or three more parked aircraft were smashed when 44 A-26 attack invaders smacked Lunghwa airdrome in the old Chinese city section of Shanghai.

HAMONIC BLAZE INQUIRY OPENS

Cruise Ship Disaster At Sarnia, Ont., Has No Loss Of Life

Sarnia, Ont., July 20 (AP)—Capt. Henry Morrison of the department of transport opened today an official Canadian government inquiry into the burning of the lakes cruise ship Hamonic, which periled 350 persons Tuesday.

The first official statement from the Canada Steamship Lines, operating the Hamonic, said today it had definitely been determined there was no loss of life among passengers or crew members. Eight of those injured in the fire remained in the Sarnia General hospital today.

The report by Capt. W. F. Howell, operating manager here for the line, confirmed that an explosion in a gasoline engine set fire to freight sheds on the dock near the stern of the Hamonic, and flames spread to the ship with "almost unbelievable" rapidity.

Captain Howell disclosed that Capt. Horace Beaton of the Hamonic, who backed the ship away from the dock and beached it 100 yards away, was enveloped by flames as he leaped from the pilot house to the deck and was forced to leap overboard. He swam ashore, then rode the scoop of a coal derrick back to the bow of the Hamonic where he directed rescue work until all passengers were off the ship.

The investigating board headed by Captain Morrison will hear testimony from ship's officers, crew members and witnesses of the fire.

Lend-Lease Goods Shipped To Italy

Washington, July 20 (AP)—The United States has begun allocating lend-lease goods to Italy and present plans are to send $100,000,000 worth.

This aid to a defeated enemy became known today, in the disclosure of a war department directive approved by President Truman.

The goods are expected to include raw materials, transportation equipment and industrial and agricultural machinery.

BLACK MARKETS BUSY IN BERLIN

Military Police Hunting Down Higher-Ups In Illicit Trading

BY DANIEL DeLUCE

Berlin, July 20. (AP) — Big-time German operators in illicit stocks of Allied food and gasoline were sought by military police of the American, British and Soviet occupying armies here tonight.

American and British security officers have for two weeks been carefully spotting centers of illegal trading, especially in Allied military supplies, against the time when the higher-ups could be grabbed. Authorization by the Berlin Kommandatur brought Soviet military police into action as part of the dragnet.

Units of the German police force joined Allied military police in an effort to clean up a situation which U. S. Maj. Gen. Floyd L. Parks called a menace to the city's welfare.

Parks told the second meeting of the inter-Allied "Kommandatur" that he believed the "black market" had grown to "alarming proportions."

His proposal that coordinated measures be undertaken to wipe it out was approved immediately and provost marshals of all four powers prepared joint operations. The French sat in at the meeting but did not participate because they are not yet occupying part of Berlin.

White House Gets Bretton Woods Bill; Peace Treaty Next

Washington, July 20. (AP)—Congress completed the economic framework for the United States' widened place in world affairs today by sending to the White House the Bretton Woods monetary agreements and a $2,800,000,000 boost in the export-import bank's lending powers.

The actions left the United Nations charter as the only pending business connected with an international program designed to keep the peace and promote world trade.

The charter will come up in the senate Monday for a week of debate and undoubted ratification.

With little debate and by unanimous voice vote, the senate accepted the house-approved legislation increasing the export-import bank's lending authority from $700,000,000 to $3,500,000,000.

Bretton Woods commits this country to invest about $6,000,000,000 in establishment of a $6,100,000,000 international bank and an $8,800,000,000 monetary stabilization fund.

Gen. Lear Yoo-Hooed By Returning GI's

Boston, July 20 (AP)—Lieutenant General Ben Lear, who once ordered a 15-mile disciplinary march for soldiers who "yoo-hooed" at shorts-clad girls, was hailed today by soldier-shipmates with a lot of "yoo-hoos" and a few "boos" as he strode down a troopship gangway.

The former deputy chief of operations for the European theater arrived aboard the transport Mariposa, which brought in 2,333 veterans, more than two-thirds of them sick or casualties.

Chinese Look For Victory Early In 1946

BY SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, July 20 (AP)—Chinese troops have captured Yiyang, key waterway-control stronghold just south of Tung Ting Lake in China's great "Rice Bowl," the Chinese high command announced today as Premier T. V. Soong predicted victory this year or early in 1946.

On widespread fronts, the Chinese announced the clearing of 50 miles of the South Chinese "invasion coast," and further advances toward Kweilin, while an American communique hinted at a Chinese thrust at Caobang, 15 miles inside Indo-China.

The U. S. communique, without elaboration, said American fighters "in support of Chinese ground forces attacked machinegun positions at Caobang in French Indo-China, inflicting casualties." The Chinese have not mentioned any drive toward Caobang.

Yiyang, in Hunan province 55 miles northwest of Changsha, is a control point in enemy waterway communications between Changsha and Tung Ting Lake, which lies in the heart of the rice bowl.

A Chinese army spokesman meanwhile declared the Japanese had moved 100,000 troops out of Hunan in the last month, sending part of them to Shantung province in apparent fear of U. S. landings there. Shantung borders the Yellow Sea opposite Korea.

Recapture of Yiyang was another indication of a large-scale enemy withdrawal from South China. The communique did not say whether there was a battle for Yiyang, taken Monday, or whether the Japanese had abandoned it.

Premier Soong told the Peoples Political Council the war with Japan would be finished by the end of this year, or the beginning of 1946 at the latest. He said nothing positive was decided yet through his recent Moscow conferences, which he described as incomplete.

TOWN IS SAVED IN OREGON FIRE

Only Rain Can Halt Huge Blaze Now, State Forester Says

Portland, Ore., July 20 (AP)—Loggers from the small lumber town of Glenwood appeared to be slowly gaining today in a battle to keep a 56 square mile forest fire from enveloping their homes.

But even as they halted the main force of the blaze only 500 to 1000 feet away, a new spot fire to the northwest began rolling toward both Glenwood and Cochran—small towns about 50 miles northwest of here.

The gigantic fire, which broke out nine days ago from an undetermined cause, is spreading on all sides so rapidly that a deputy state forester predicted only rain could detain it.

Lynn Cronemiller said that two days of hot, dry weather would expand the blaze over the entire 275,000 acres of the northwest Oregon Tillamook Run. Humidity today, however, was about 58—a fairly moist mark; and the weather bureau forecast intermittent showers over the weekend.

The weather bureau at Boeing Field reported that the fire itself had improved weather conditions—a smoke blanket possibly 10,000 feet thick reducing temperatures from five to six degrees.

Hitler Didn't Make Submarine Escape, Navy Chief Insists

BY CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Kiel, Germany, July 20 (AP) — Admiral Eberhard Godt, operations chief for the former German navy underseas fleet, said today the German submarine U-530 which surrendered to Argentina last week, had left "Kiel or a Norwegian port" on March 3 and that neither Adolf Hitler nor Eva Braun was aboard.

The admiral said that reports that Hitler and his mistress had been put ashore in Argentina by the U-530 were wild rumors.

"I certainly would have known if the U-530 had been ear-marked for any special mission," Godt said in his first statement to the press since Germany's surrender.

His statement was supported by German Admiral Helmut, a former commander and chief of small battle units, who said the U-530 was "leaking at the seams" and had been considered unsafe.

DETAILS HELD BACK IN BLOW AT TOKYO BAY

JAPANESE DEFENSES FOR AIR ATTACKS PROVE FEEBLE

BY NORRIE LANDSBERG

Guam, Saturday, July 21 (AP)—While a security blackout still barred details of the American and British fleets' air-surface blows at Tokyo bay Wednesday and Thursday, navy and army headquarters today reported other widespread aerial thrusts at the feebly defended Japanese empire.

Lumbering search planes of the fleet damaged a medium cargo ship off eastern Honshu Friday, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced, and 80 Mustangs from Iwo Jima strafed central Honshu in the wake of a record pre-dawn strike by more than 600 B-29s.

Oil Refinery Ablaze

Other Okinawa-based search aircraft set fire to a small coastal cargo ship off southern Honshu Thursday.

Antiaircraft guns downed two Japanese planes attempting to strike Okinawa Wednesday night, in addition to three shot down by American night fighters. Three others crashed in futile attacks Thursday.

The speedy Mustangs from Iwo Jima, striking a few hours after the pre-dawn B-29 attacks on four cities and an oil refinery on Honshu Island, shot up five airfields and other targets in the Nagoya-Osaka area.

One Mustang failed to return, bringing the day's losses to three planes. It was announced earlier that two B-29s were lost but that five crewmen were rescued.

The B-29 fliers returning to their Marianas bases reported they observed conflagrations spreading in the target cities of Fukui, Hitachi, Choshi and Okozaki. Another target, the Amagasaki oil refinery of the Nippon oil company, also was left burning furiously.

More Targets Hunted

The Iwo P-51's shot down nine Japanese planes they caught in the air and destroyed two on the ground at Kagamigahara, Nishinomiya, Komake, Kametyama and Suzuka.

Hungry for more targets, the pilots ranged along the valley between Osaka and Kuoto, strafing factories, power lines and powerhouses.

The field day for the big bombers and speedy fighters climaxed a week of air blows, including carrier aircraft strikes, at Japan and other important targets such as Japanese-held Shanghai on the China coast.

Strike Of Rubber Workers Is Called Blow To War Plans

Detroit, July 20 (AP) — Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson declared today the strike of some 6,000 United States Rubber Co. plant employes "is seriously endangering our plan for the conduct of the Pacific war."

The strikers remained away from their jobs again today in a dispute involving the CIO's United Rubber Workers and the Mechanics Educational Society of America (independent).

"We need every B-29 we can put in the air to destroy the military and industrial installations of Japan," Patterson declared in a telegram. "And we need C-54 transports to carry back the wounded from the battle front."

The undersecretary of war said the stoppage was jeopardizing operations to such an extent that "unless it is promptly terminated it will continue to ground aircraft needed by the armed forces to carry on our bombing of the enemy and to bring our wounded back to base hospitals."

Twelve MESA members discharged three days ago under the maintenance of membership contract between the URW-CIO and the company began picketing the plant. Other workers were said to have refused to go through the picket lines despite appeals from URW-CIO officials.

Soldiers To Sleep In Shifts On Train

Washington, July 20 (AP)— The army is going to experiment with "sleep shifts" on Pullmans in an effort to relieve the shortage of sleeping cars, it was learned today.

Under this system, a soldier will occupy a berth eight to 12 hours and then relinquish it to another soldier for a similar period. The remainder of the time will be spent in day coaches.

The first test train, made up of coaches and Pullmans, will leave Kilmer, N. J., at 9 a. m. Sunday for Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

STORY OF WAKE ISLAND RETOLD

Survivors Escape From Prison Camp, Reveal Jap Cruelties

Washington, July 20 (AP)—Two survivors of the heroic marine garrison on Wake Island said today the defenders surrendered to the Japanese largely to prevent further slaughter of unarmed civilians.

Seventy civilians had already been killed, along with 49 marines, when the little Pacific island was finally given up to strong enemy forces on December 23, 1941, they related.

The survivors, first to tell of the last hours on Wake, were First Lieutenants John A. McAlister, 26, of Blue Mountain, Miss., and John F. Kinney, 30, of Colfax, Wash.

They have just reached Washington after escape from a prisoner of war camp near Shanghai, China. How they managed that is a secret.

The lieutenants said the Japanese killed two wounded men in a surrendered hospital, forced all the surrendering garrison to strip and tied them to posts for hours. They allowed the captives no food and little water for two days.

They told a news conference that there were 435 marines on Wake at the start, that the 50th marine death came the day after surrender.

Queen Bess Leads Parade Of 31,455 European Veterans

New York, July 20 (AP)—Led by the superliner Queen Elizabeth, a victory procession of seven ships steamed into New York harbor today with 31,455 veterans of the European war.

The "Queen Bess" brought 14,576 officers and men of the redoubtable 44th Infantry Division, whose commanding officer, Maj. Gen. William F. Dean of Salt Lake City, laughingly declared:

"I hope to meet the Russians in Tokyo."

Marlene Dietrich, who Gen. Dean said was "the first and only big-time actress we had seen up at the front lines," dangled her famous legs in welcome.

More than 7,000 members of the Second Infantry Division, cited by Gen. Courtney H. Hodges for "holding the hot corner in the battle of the bulge," were aboard the Monticello, under the command of Brig. Gen. William K. Harrison of Pulaski, Tenn.

Following the Queen Elizabeth and the Monticello into port were the Le Jeune, Bret Hart, Nishmaha, Marine Panther and Frances Y. Slanger. Most of the returnees were slated for redeployment following furloughs.

Lawn Mowing Order Brings On Walkout

Stamford, Conn., July 21 (AP)—Following the action of five hundred day shift employes, the night shift of 35 employes of the Schick Razor Company left the plant tonight after receiving their pay checks, in a dispute which union officials said was based on the right of factory executives to order some of the workers to mow lawns on their private estates.

David Adams, president of the International Association of Machinists (AFL) said that assigning the men to work at other than their regular jobs was in violation of the union contract.

Kenneth C. Gifford, Schick president and C. C. Lewis, vice-president replied that the practice of lawn cutting, today's issue, had been going on for 15 years without any previous claims of contract violation.

PEACE GOALS ARE OUTLINED BY PRESIDENT

STARS AND STRIPES RAISED OVER BERLIN

BY ERNEST B. VACCARO

Berlin, July 20 (AP)—President Truman told the world today that the United States does not propose to trade its sacrifices in the bloodiest of wars for territorial conquest or monetary gain.

Speaking only a few miles from the former Kaisers' palace where he is working with Prime Minister Churchill and Generalissimo Stalin on a formula for preserving Europe against future war he declared pointedly:

"We are not fighting for conquest. There is not a piece of territory or one thing of a monetary nature we want out of this war."

Great Age Ahead

The words were spoken at the historic occasion of the raising of the stars and stripes over the capital of Germany—"our greatest adversary." Picked infantrymen from the Second ("Hell on Wheels") Armored division then heard this solemn warning:

"We must not forget that we are fighting for peace and for the welfare of mankind."

"We want peace and we want to see the time come when we can do the things in peace that we have been able to do in war," the gray-haired Missourian assured the victorious outfit.

"If we can put this tremendous machine of ours which has made this victory possible to work for peace, we can look forward to the greatest age in the history of mankind.

"That," the president concluded firmly, "is what we propose to do."

Flanked by War Secretary Stimson, General Eisenhower, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Gen. George S. Patton, Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, and Maj. Gen. Floyd L. Parks, the president spoke extemporaneously for about two minutes in the cobblestoned central court of what had been the headquarters of the German Air Force district commander.

Chief Plays Piano

He had hurried to the ceremony by automobile direct from formal discussions with Churchill and Stalin.

When the president concluded, the historic flag which flew over the capitol at Washington the day the U. S. entered the war against the Axis, and which will be taken to Tokyo, was raised over the quarters of the American control forces occupying Berlin.

British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden returned to work today after an indisposition which prevented his attending President Truman's state dinner last night for Churchill and Stalin.

The dinner apparently was a big success, climaxed by the president playing Beethoven's Minuet in G on the piano at the joint request of his two top guests.

An American sergeant pianist, Eugene List, scored a complete triumph when he won two toasts from Stalin and a hearty handshake from Churchill.

No Official News

Official news was lacking on the progress of the conference. It was hoped that communiques of a generalized nature would be issued as progress of the conference warrants.

Steady progress was indicated by word that the foreign secretaries were going into a daily huddle and forwarding their recommendations to the leaders as fast as they complete their study of

JAPS INVITED BEAR HUNTERS

Invitation To Hokkaido Is Being Accepted By Our Flyers

Washington—Hunters were invited to visit Yezo, better known by the Japanese name, Hokkaido, by Nipponese officials a dozen or so years ago, to shoot bear, deer, wolves, foxes, hares, wild duck, teal, quail and other game. But the invitation did not include the shooting of war-equipment factories by "hunters" in American warplanes. Sportsmen were advised to bring their own ammunition: the present American hunters are doing so—in giant bombs, rockets and shells.

Hokkaido island, the size of Indiana and with a population at that time of some 3,000,000 persons, was capable of supporting a much larger number of people according to Japanese standards, and the government wanted to further colonize it.

Railways into the interior were constructed to open up formerly inaccessible areas. The productivity of the soil, the timber and other natural resources, and the beauty of the country were advertised. The drawback, to people from the south, was its New England-like climate, with winters of Siberian intensity in its north.

Hokkaido is important to the people of the other three islands of the Japanese mainland group because of its food products, timber and minerals. Its summers are too short for rice production, but wheat, rye, barley and other small grains do well. It raises many fine fruits and berries, and also a considerable number of cattle and horses. Particularly important is its fishing industry, with salmon as one of the principal catches.

The forests of Hokkaido are as yet largely primeval and contain much material for Japanese construction and other wood products uses. The forests are found toward the north side of the island and in the mountainous interior. They are the home of the wild animals which foreigners were invited to hunt.

Bituminous coal is Hokkaido's principal mineral. It exists in considerable quantities and several mines are in operation producing this essential material for the war factories on Honshu. A bottleneck in the transportation route from the coal mines to factories is the 15-to 20-mile-wide Tsugaru strait between the two islands, across which the coal is carried by car ferries from Hakodate to Honshu.

Living on Hokkaido are some 18,000 of the original Aino people, often referred to as the "hairy Ainos" and the "hairy Kuriles." They have about the same relation to the Japanese inhabitants and government as the Indians in America to the white race. There is some intermarriage between them and Japs. They adhere rather closely to their patriarchal customs and have taken from the Nipponese only what they think would be of essential benefit to them.

Ore Miners Granted Extra Meat Points

Washington, July 20 (AP)—Coal and ore miners throughout the country will become eligible early next month for extra ration points for meat, dairy products and sugar.

Coal and ore miners who do not have access to in-plant feeding establishments will be able to obtain a monthly maximum of 50 extra red points for meats and fats, and a supplementary stamp for one pound of sugar a month.

Expansion of the program follows complaints from mining areas that the regular allotment of points is not sufficient for men doing heavy manual labor.

Queen Victoria did not know that she one day would be ruler of Great Britain until she was 12 years old, when she heard it during a history lesson.

The initial use of incendiaries by aircraft occurred during the German Zeppelin raid on London in 1915, during which one airship dropped 90 fire bombs.

Shorts Shortage Makes Men Wear Pink Panties

Detroit, July 20 (AP)—Detroit's solid citizens are not sissies.

They rose up in defense of their sex today when told that Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) had received a letter from a Detroit wholesale drygoods firm stating that the textile shortage had reduced the local gentry to "buying ladies' panties for their own use."

Mayor Jeffries and Councilmen Dorais, Van Antwerp and Sweeny, were vehement in their denials. Said Dorais, "There's no shorts shortage in my wardrobe. Mine are still holding out all right."

Sweeney went even farther. He offered to prove to his fellow city fathers, or anyone else in doubt, that his "panties weren't pink."

Department store buyers at the J. L. Hudson Co., Crowley Milner & Co., and the Ernst Kern Co., said that they had heard the story but had no proof.

"Every now and then a woman insists on the plainest knitted white underpants we have," one saleswoman said laughingly, "and in a size that wouldn't fit the purchaser."

Another giggled and admitted that she had been suspicious of a few sales. She added, "of course even the plain ones have lace on them."

Still another department store clerk asserted she sold four pairs of women's cotton "briefs" and a size 44 tea-rose step-in this week to women who admitted the garments were for their husbands.

A wholesaler said he sold his entire supply of women's cotton "briefs" to a Saginaw, Mich., men's wear store about a month ago.

Men's wear stores reported countless inquiries about women's "briefs" have been received along with requests for men's shorts.

Apparently they want them but they won't go into women's departments to get them, a clerk said.

MANY TEETH NEED PULLING

More Than 200 Million Extractions Are Necessary

Washington—Americans over age three need 238,500,000 teeth pulled and 632,000,000 fillings made in their teeth, the subcommittee on health of the Senate Committee on Education and Labor has been informed.

These and other estimated figures of the accumulated dental needs of the population will be discussed at committee hearings here on dental research and dental care bills. Chairman of the subcommittee on health is Senator Claude Pepper of Florida.

Dental neglect among children aged six to 18 is such that, according to the estimates, only about 5,650,000 of the annual crop of 22,500,000 decayed teeth are filled.

The population over age three also has an accumulated need for 39,500,000 crowns and bridges, 20,000,000 partial dentures (false teeth) 20,000,000 dental disease treatments and 125,000,000 prophylactic treatments.

Since 1940, one-third of the civilian dentists have gone into the armed services, the committee was further informed. Indicating the variation in availability of dental care, California in 1940 had one dentist for every 1,279 people while South Carolina had one dentist for every 5,263 people.

Kayo Victory Won By Fred Cochrane

Middlesboro, Ky., July 20 (AP)—Freddie Cochrane, welterweight champion, knocked out Bobby Howard, of Washington, in the third round of a scheduled ten-round non-title bout here tonight.

Cochrane, who hails from Hillside, N. J., floored Howard with a left hook after two minutes and 47 seconds of the round had elapsed.

The champ weighed in at 144, and his opponent tipped the scales at 147½.

The champion has won seven of eight fights since being discharged from the navy, losing only to Rocky Graziano in Madison Square Garden on June 29.

Dispute Cuts Off Kansas City Milk

Kansas City, July 20 (AP)—Kansas City virtually was without milk tonight as all but one of the city's major dairies were idle because of a dispute between the Milk Drivers' Union and the Milk Producers.

Last deliveries of milk were received by processors Wednesday and today's retail sales exhausted the reserve supply.

Many of the producers have been dumping their milk on the ground rather than accede to the unions demand.

Producers and union representatives were unable to agree on a proposal that deliveries continue while negotiations for settlement of the dispute were in progress.

Pro Gridders May Travel By Water

Washington, July 20 (AP)—Professional football may do some traveling by water next season in order to help relieve the burden on transportation.

The possibility of water travel on a limited number of trips was discussed today in a conference between Elmer Layden, National Professional league commissioner, and ODT officials.

Layden came to town to go over his league's travel problems generally with ODT, and said after the meeting that no definite decisions were reached. He will confer with the ODT again in about a week.

Gladstone Nurse Flies To Manila With Iron Lung

With U. S. Fifth Air Force, Luzon, July 20. (AP) — Responding to urgent radio messages for help, a C-47 cargo plane of the Fifth Air Force troop carrier command flew an iron lung into the rugged mountainous combat zone near Legaspi.

The patient, Pvt. Robert S. Wilcox, Upper Darby, Pa., who had been stricken suddenly by a form of poliomyelitis, was reported in good condition when he later reached a Manila hospital.

Lt. Irene Larson of Gladstone, Mich., flight nurse, attended Wilcox on the two-hour flight to the hospital.

Matron Gagged And Bound; 2 Boys Make Get-Away At Ionia

Ionia, Mich., July 20 (AP)—Two 15-year-old boys detained in the Ionia county court house fled today after gagging and binding the matron, Mrs. Charles Dahl, and locking her in a cell.

They overpowered Mrs. Dahl, a woman in her 60's when she came to pick up breakfast dishes in the detention cell in the court house basement.

One boy, committed for stealing an automobile, was awaiting transfer to the State Vocational School at Lansing; the other was held at the request of his parents who believed he was planning to run away from home.

Losses Of UAW $52,000 Monthly

Minneapolis, July 20. (AP)—George F. Addes, secretary-treasurer of the CIO United Automobile Workers Union, has reported to the organization's executive board, in session here, that the union was operating at a loss of $52,000 a month.

He said there had been a deficit for the last six months although the union received $1 monthly dues and special assessments from 1,071,435 members. The assessments amounted to $500,000, he said.

Flint Family Lists 13 Boys In Service

Camp Robinson, Ark., July 20. (AP)—Pvt. Fred Burns of Flint, Mich., trainee in the infantry replacement training center at Camp Robinson, is one of 13 brothers in the armed forces—a near record for one family, so far as the public relations office can determine.

Although he was the thirteenth member of the family to be inducted, Private Burns said he wasn't at all superstitious.

"It will be more unlucky for the Japs than for me," he said.

Before entering the army the husky private served ten months with the Maritime Service in both the Atlantic and Pacific.

Of the 13 brothers, the sons of Mrs. John A. Deavers of Flint, six are in the army, four in the marines and two in the navy.

The fourteenth son is at home.

TOO MANY JOKERS

Camp Blanding, Fla., July 20 (AP)—In Camp Blanding's daily bulletin a notice asked for a good paper hanger to work in a GI's residence.

Toward the end of the day, the GI who inserted the notice was a bit weary of telephone calls that said: "This is Adolf—when do I start?"

LAKE TRAFFIC IS PROTECTED

Weather Bureau Service Expanded In War Emergency

In peace and war the Great Lakes form the most important waterway in the world for the movement of heavy cargoes, and their middle-eastern position on the North American continent makes the lakes vulnerable to some of the most vicious of inland storms, according to a bulletin issued by the U. S. Weather Bureau. Information for portions of the bulletin were contributed by Henry Hathaway, Escanaba observer.

War demands for extraordinary cargo movements result in forcing the opening of navigation to the earliest possible date in spring and in delaying closing of navigation until the latest possible date in early winter, the bulletin continues. During the war, lake shipping has been exposed to some of the worst storms which occur on the lakes.

In the face of war emergency, two steps were taken early in 1941 by the Weather Bureau, the Lake Carriers Association, and the International Shipmasters Association of the Great Lakes, to provide protection from storms and violent weather.

Special reports and detailed forecasts were transmitted by radio, day and night, every six hours, direct to cargo vessels on the lakes; special reports and warnings were transmitted at intermediate periods.

Wind-measuring instruments were installed on a number of cargo vessels so that accurate wind reports from the open lakes could be obtained by radio, for the use of Weather Bureau forecasters as a supplement to their regular network of observations from land stations.

In making weather forecasts for the Great Lakes, the elements which are unfavorable or dangerous to shipping are winds of storm and hurricane force; sudden changes in winds of high velocity; heavy rain or snow, which impair vision, fog; and ice and temperatures below freezing.

Since 1870 when the Weather Bureau was created, there have been many changes in the service. The most notable were the development of radio communications, and the more recent expansion of upper air observations which are beginning to give the weather forecaster a better understanding of the relation between the swifter-moving winds of the atmosphere above the earth and the surface winds which accompany these violet storm centers.

In peacetime, the volume of traffic in the navigation season on the Great Lakes compares favorably with that carried annually by the entire United States ocean-moving merchant fleets. During the year 1941 the combined freight tonnage carried through the five important canals, New York State, St. Lawrence, Welland, Panama and Suez totaled 82,182,797 net tons. By contrast, between April 4 and Dec. 14, in 19141, the canals at Sault Ste. Marie cleared 111,-121,684 net tons. This will give some idea of the importance of the activity and of the weather information and forecasts which protect the traffic.

Reappraisal Is Illegal Says Attorney General

The Delta county board of supervisors lacks legal authority to employ an appraisal company to furnish the board with information on values of taxable property in the county, according to an opinion by Attorney General John R. Dethmers received yesterday by Prosecuting Attorney Torval E. Strom.

Despite the opinion, however, there was a movement underway yesterday which may result in the signing of a contract for the work between the county and a reappraisal company.

There is also the possibility that the signing of the contract as authorized by the board of supervisors June 25 may bring an injunction suit to restrain the county from appropriating funds to pay for the reappraisal.

Yesterday Prosecutor Strom said that, in view of the attorney general's opinion, he could not recommend that Board Chairman O. J. Thorsen of Wells sign the contract. He said that he told the board chairman that if he signed the contract, and the county was named defendant in a lawsuit and was enjoined by the court from appropriating funds to pay for the reappraisal, the board chairman might be personally liable for the cost.

Later Chairman Thorsen said that a meeting was planned for this morning with himself and other supervisors of the county board, and E. T. Wilkins, representative of the J. M. Cleminshaw company, Cleveland appraisal firm present. The time and place of the meeting had not been definitely decided last night.

The opinion of the attorney general received in response to Prosecutor Strom's inquiry follows:

"This will acknowledge receipt of your letter of July 14, 1945, requesting the opinion of this office on the authority of the board of supervisors to employ an appraisal company to furnish the board with complete data and information as to the values of real and personal property in townships of the county so that the board will have this information in performing its duty to equalize tax assessments.

"You call to our attention to the then Attorney General's opinion dated August 25, 1932, rendered to the then prosecuting attorney of Gogebic County, which opinion is reported on page 50 of the Biennial Report of the Attorney General for the years 1932-1934. Briefly stated, this opinion holds that the county has no power to employ a mining engineer for the purpose of appraising all mining property in the county. We have examined said opinion of the Attorney General and the authorities therein cited and are in agreement with the conclusion therein announced.

"We are accordingly of the opinion that the board of supervisors of your county lacks legal authority to employ an appraisal company to furnish the board with complete data and information as to the values of real and personal property in the townships of the said county and that said board of supervisors is also without legal authority to appropriate funds to pay the costs of such an appraisal."

Reemployment Problem

THE problem of reemployment of returning war veterans was brought into sharp focus here this week by Major Wm. J. Meyers, of the state headquarters of Selective Service.

Major Meyers revealed that 34,500 men have been called into military service from the upper peninsula, of which 4,865 have already returned to civilian activity. Up to now there has been no difficulty finding jobs for the returning veterans. War production still is heavy and the labor shortage continues acute.

However, Mayor Meyers revealed that an additional 5,000 upper peninsula veterans will return to civilian life within the next 12 months, greatly accelerating the problem of absorbing the returning soldiers and sailors.

In a survey conducted by the Army Special Services, it was learnd that 79 per cent of the men in uniform held jobs as employes before entering military service, 10 per cent were students, 8 per cent were self-employed and 3 per cent were either unemployed or unclassified. Between 75 per cent and 80 per cent of the men who formerly were employed by others plan to return to civilian life as employes of others, but less than half of them plan to return to their old jobs.

This provides the first tipoff on what may be expected in the reemployment problem when demobilization is general. Not all employers, however, may safely assume that only half of the men who left their employ to enter military service will return to their jobs following discharge. An appraisal of the type of jobs held by these men before entering service will assist in making a determination of the percentage of men who will return to their old jobs.

For instance, servicemen who held comparatively good jobs with reasonably good working conditions probably will return to those jobs in numbers greater than the 50 per cent average. On the other hand, industries with lower wages and less attractive working conditions probably will find considerably less than 50 per cent of their servicemen returning to their old jobs.

In any case, using the 10 per cent basis for servicemen who were students at the time of induction, new jobs or educational opportunities must be provided for an estimated 3,500 upper peninsula soldiers and sailors.

Coupled with this problem is that of upper peninsula men not in service who left the area for higher paying jobs in industrial centers. A large percentage of these men undoubtedly will return when the war boom is over.

The reemployment problem shapes up as a major headache in the days ahead.

Free Elections Promised

SMOKED out by a letter sent by Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, the state department has promised to give full publicity to the political situation within Poland and do its part to assure free elections for the people of that country.

The statement of U. S. policy is reassuring, and it is to be hoped that the pledge will not be forgotten in the future. Probably nothing has created so much distrust of the Russian government as its political maneuvers in Poland. It is difficult to analyze the Polish situation from this distance, of course, but the impression the average American gains from the goings-on is that Moscow plans to establish a Communist regime within Poland, making it more or less a satellite of Russia.

Admittedly, there is much misunderstanding about the Polish question, and in the end it may be settled satisfactorily. The solution may come in the conference now being held at Potsdam by Truman, Stalin and Churchill.

Stalin has been insisting that the world will never be free of Fascism as long as Generallisimo Franco is allowed to rule as a dictator in Spain. He and others have pointed out that the Spanish people should be allowed to have a government of their own choosing in free elections. The same situation applies to Poland, and we're hoping that Stalin will recognize the need for consistency.

The "Free Hand"

MICHIGAN'S current mess in liquor control, which will bring to trial men charged with graft in influencing the placing of state purchasing orders for liquor, again points to the need for for a minimum of political control in the actions of all state boards and commissions. The liquor control commission is no exception.

The state commissions and boards are born in a political cradle by virtue of political appointment of their members. Every governor of Michigan has had the opportunity to make such appointments, and he has the power to remove members as well. The influence of the governor, therefore, in the policies and actions of the boards and commissions is tremendous.

Governor Kelly in making appointments to the liquor control commission announced that his appointees would have a "free hand" in running the commission. Such a "free hand" policy, if it could be followed, might keep political meddling in commission affairs to a minimum.

Yet those who have been close to the Lansing political scene declare that a "free hand" policy in impossible with the liquor control commission. Political influence on political appointees continues, and the hand that rocks the political cradle is that of the governor responsible for the appointments. No member of a board or commission cares to risk the public criticism that would follow his removal.

It might be said that there is little wrong with the state boards of commissions—but there is something very wrong in their control by politicians. No matter how well-intentioned individual members of a commission may be, they seldom oppose the politicians. For they know they may be branded as inadequate, the political club will fall and they will be removed.

The need is not so much for a "free hand" policy for the commission, but a "hands off" policy for the politicians.

No Cause for Alarm

ANNOUNCEMENT that two representatives of the school of public health of the University of Michigan have been spending the past week making an infantile paralysis survey should not be cause for any alarm.

Actually, the doctors were studying the records of the 1940 polio epidemic in a routine program that has been conducted for some time to obtain more knowledge of this much dreaded malady. Much information has been gained in the last few years, but the exact cause of the disease has not yet been definitely established.

Michigan has fared exceedingly well during the current polio season. Chief increases in cases during the past few weeks were in New York, New Jersey, Tennessee, Texas and California. Slight improvement is noted throughout the country, for the U. S. Public Health Service reported last week that the total number of cases since Jan. 1 was below the corresponding period of last year.

The danger season is not passed, of course, and the public is asked to take the usual precautions recommended by the medical profession.

Carelessness Penalized

TWO facts served as the basis for a move by St. Paul recently in enacting an ordinance making it unlawful for motorists to leave automobiles parked on streets or unattended parking lots without first removing the ignition key.

The facts: During 1944, 71 per cent of the 284 automobiles stolen in St. Paul were parked with ignition keys left in them. The records show also that 77 per cent of all automobile thefts in the city were by juveniles.

Motorists can save the police and themselves a lot of trouble by removing the ignition key when they get out of their cars.

DANISH YOUTH WANTS TO FIGHT

(Green Bay Press-Gazette)

There is such a dearth of the article known as international gratitude that all eyes should focus upon small and valiant Denmark where the first brigade of Danes for the Pacific war is already prepared to move east, and the government has approved the recruiting of still further brigades.

By this conduct Denmark has leaped to a pinnacle. She is trying in the way of decent and wholesome people to repay the debt she owes to us for her freedom, and she is doing something far more than that, she is putting life into international trust and confidence.

The Danes are trying to abolish the law of physical greed and international immorality from its important overlordship in the world. Compare her action with that of 130 million people who live to the south of us, not one of whom moved toward the crimson fields of battle except a division of Brazilians. And there are other comparisons that could be made nearer the Danes than South America.

LINCOLN IS NEVER OLD

(Christian Science Monitor)

Some historic shrines can turn thought backward to the false paradise of "the good old days." But anything that serves to preserve and revitalize the life and the words of Abraham Lincoln likewise serves the living present. For what Lincoln did and said is as timeless as are liberty, humility, and tolerance.

The Nation's thanks are due, therefore, to the State of Illinois for purchasing the old State Capitol to be added to the several Lincoln memorials in and about Springfield. Here is added evidence that Illinois retains a true historical perspective, a sense of enduring values.

The difference between a Pullman and a day coach has turned out to be the difference between a vitally necessary trip and an unimportant one.

Take My Word For It . . Frank Colby

WHAT'S THE ORIGIN?

Q. Why do we say that a person is "talented?" Isn't there something about talents in the Bible?

A. Use of talent in the meaning of a special aptitude or natural ability grew out of the parable in Matthew 24.

In ancient days the word talent designated a unit of weight, also a sum of money amounting to 3000 shekels, according to some estimates. In the parable, a certain rich man, preparing to journey into a far country, distributed several talents of his goods among three servants, ". . . to every man according to his several ability," so that they might trade with them in his absence.

On his return he found that two of the servants had doubled their talents, but one had become afraid and had hidden his master's talent in the earth. The master had the unprofitable servant cast into outer darkness and there was "weeping and gnashing of teeth."

Q. We have a raging argument about the word "prune." My friend insists that a prune is a kind of plum. I say that a prune is the common dried fruit dear to the hearts of boardinghouse landladies. Who's right?

A. It's a draw. Prune is the French word for "plum." In English the word prune designates a type of plum grown chiefly on the Pacific Coast. Of all plums, the prune is the one best adapted to drying, and most of the crop is devoted to that purpose. For this reason, the word prune, to the average person, has come to mean only the dried fruit.

But to Charles Dickens, the word prune was an aid to clear articulation, for he wrote, "Papa, potatoes, poultry, prunes and prism are all very good words for the lips; especially prunes and prism."

It's fun to be a quiz-master. My WORD QUIZ GAME is just right for clubs, English classes, family groups, U. S. O. entertainments, etc. Send one to your serviceman. For a free copy send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Frank Colby, in care of this paper.

The Office of Scientific Research and Development, which has done such a magnificent service for this country in the war, now comes forward with a proposal which, if adopted by Congress, can move the nation a long way toward security and well - being in the peace.

In a report to the White House significantly entitled "Science, the Endless Frontier," Dr. Vannevar Bush, director of OSRD, recommends the creation of a national research foundation. The foundation would foster independent research in all fields of science and, just as important, it would pay for the scientific education of keen young Americans whose talents might not otherwise be developed.

Each year, 6000 four-year college scholarships in scientific and technological fields would be granted to high-school graduates chosen by state committees. In addition, 300 fellowships would be awarded each year to advanced students who have shown special promise in their college courses. Both the college students and the graduate scholars "would be chosen solely on the basis of merit, without regard to sex, color, race, creed or need."

—NATIONAL SCIENCE RESERVE—

After the fourth year of operation, 24,000 college students and 900 research fellows would be studying in American universities with the aid of funds provided by the national foundation. The scale of support would be approximately that which veterans going to college will receive — $500 a year for tuition and fees, $50 a month for maintenance for a single man, $75 if married. The total annual cost, with the plan in full operation after the fourth year, would be $29,000,000.

We would all, as a nation, gain immeasurably from such a plan, even though the brains so educated were never put to work directly for our government. Under this plan, all those who benefited from it — both graduate and undergraduate students —would be enrolled in a national science reserve and be subject to all into the service of the federal government when Congress or the President declared a state of national emergency to exist.

"Evidence presented to the committee," the report said, "shows that, if such a science reserve had been in existence in 1940 and had included many of the best scientists, the mobilization of scientific men before Pearl Harbor would have been much more rapid and effective."

If a detailed estimate of the cost of universal military training has even been presented, I have not seen it, but certainly the annual bill would run to hundreds of millions of dollars. This spur to our scientific training and development would cost a mere fraction of the bill for universal service, yet it is just as important to our national security. This war has shown that, in some ways, it is more important.

—BUSH IS GREAT SCIENTIST—

For one thing, it would help to fill in the big gap in our scientific training and put them to studying again, either in Europe or here. This, as he sees it, should have a No. 1 priority, now that V-E Day is long past.

The 184-page report is actually the work of a series of committees named by Bush. Our foremost educators and scientists, the latter chosen both from public institutions and from industry, served on those committees. They have worked out a thorough, careful plan for putting the needed push of the federal government behind our scientific progress and yet keeping our science independent of government control.

The Office of Scientific Research and Development will disband with the war's end. Already its work is being curtailed and its workers scattered.

This core of our scientific strength must not be broken up. As a stopgap, the house has already provided for a research board for national security, with an $8,000,000 appropriation.

But that is a mere stopgap. Here in the OSRD report, the product of our most thoughtful men, is the long-term program. No powerful pressure lobby will be pestering congress to adopt this proposal, yet there are times when the interests of 130,000,000 Americans are greater than any lobby, and this is one of the times.

Our Changing World

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

FOR CLARITY — Perhaps the majority of the property-owning taxpayers in Delta county are somewhat confused over the developments in tax allocation, assessment, and equalization in the county this year.

Dunathan

For the sake of clarity, therefore, it might be well to explain as clearly as possible just what has been done and is being done in tax matters by the county tax allocation commission, the county board of supervisors, and more recently the state tax commission.

To be uninformed on taxation procedure is nothing to be ashamed of. The average citizen usually knows the assessed valuation on his property, the tax rate, and the total of his tax bill. Aside from that the whole procedure in arriving at those figures is somewhat hazy.

* * *

TAX ALLOCATION — Under the 15-mill tax limitation law, tax allocation commissions in each county annually set the tax rates for the county, the schools and the townships. The total cannot exceed 15 mills. The rates are established after a study of budgets submitted by each unit, and following hearings.

* * *

THE ASSESSOR — The valuation on your property for tax purposes is determined by the assessor. Escanaba and Gladstone have city assessors, and in the townships the supervisor is the assessor.

* * *

BOARDS OF REVIEW—Each of the cities and each of the townships have boards of review. These boards annually check the property valuation figures as they are presented on the assessment rolls by the assessing officer. The boards of review can and often do make adjustments in the assessment figures.

* * *

COUNTY BOARD—Annually in June the county board of supervisors meet in equalization session to equalize the county tax load between the cities and the townships. It cannot change the individual assessment figures on properties in the townships or cities, but it can raise or lower the total valuation for the city or township for county tax purposes.

* * *

STATE TAX COMMISSION — The state tax commission is a final authority on allocation, valuations and equalization, but will act only when it is called into the local picture on an appeal or complaint by persons who are dissatisfied with the work done by the local allocation commission, assessor, boards of review or county board of supervisors.

* * *

TWO APPEALS — The above may be over-simplified, but it should clarify some of the duties and responsibilities of the several boards and commissions on taxation.

This year there were two appeals to the state commission for a review of the work done by county commissions or boards.

* * *

APPEAL NO. 1—The first appeal to the state tax commission was made by the county board of supervisors. It was dissatisfied with the work of the county tax allocation commission, and protested against the allocation of a higher tax millage rate to the schools, and a lower tax rate for the county. The tax rate for the county would be inadequate to bring sufficient revenue to meet the county's 1945-46 budgetary needs.

* * *

APPEAL NO. 2 — The second appeal to the state tax commission was made by Supervisor Peter N. Logan of Escanaba. Logan was dissatisfied with the work of the county board of supervisors in equalizing valuations between Escanaba, Gladstone and the 14 townships in the county. Logan complained that some units were too high, others too low in equalized value.

* * *

INVESTIGATION — The other day the state tax commission began investigating values in the several units of the county on which it will arrive at equalized value for the separate units, and will then arrive at an equalized total value for the county.

As result of this investigation it will also obtain information necessary to review the complaint on tax rate allocation. Both the hearing on equalization, and the hearing on tax allocation will be held at the October meeting of the county board.

* * *

THE REAPPRAISAL—The proposed reappraisal of values on taxable properties in Gladstone and the townships, as authorized by the county board, will establish a new record of values for each property on the tax rolls. This work has already been completed in Escanaba.

Gladstone is to have a separate contract, and to pay separately for its reappraisal, as did the city of Escanaba.

The contract authorized by the county board, therefore, would call for a reappraisal in the townships to be paid for by the county.

Before the contract was signed with a private appraisal company, there arose the question of whether the county board had exceeded its authority in hiring "outside" appraisers. It is this question on which an opinion is awaited from the Michigan attorney general.

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1935

Thousands of workers who are on relief have been removed from the relief rolls in South Dakota in an effort to make them work as harvesters in the wheat fields. Many refused to since the pay is less for the harvesters than they were receiving on relief.

Mrs. John Luecke has been elected secretary-treasurer of the eleventh district of the Michigan division of the American Legion auxiliary. Mrs. Josephine Campbell has been named as a delegate to the national convention.

Miss Dorothy Norby is visiting in Marinette with her aunt, Mrs. Sam Robinson, and her grandmother, Mrs. Sophia Thoreson.

George A. Shroeder, speaker of the house of representatives, was an overnight guest here last night on his way to other points of interest in the upper peninsula. He has the distinction of being the first Detroiter to wield the gavel in the house in 87 years. He is a Democrat.

The Pine Grove Pavilion at Moss Lake burned to the ground Sunday evening at a damage of about five thousand dollars. The cause of the fire is not known and the owner announced that he did not expect to rebuild.

Mrs. Eric Olson, Ludington street, was the guest of honor at a surprise birthday party Wednesday. The party followed the regular meeting of the Morning Star society and was very successful. Cards were played and a delicious lunch was served. The guest was presented with many gifts.

In Gladstone the Camp Fire circle of which Miss Ruth Beneshek is guardian entertained for her at the Charles Anderson home, Wisconsin avenue. Fifteen girls were present and Miss Beneshek was presented with silver teaspoons and a silver server.

HOLLYWOOD: THE PRODUCERS—Harry Rapf, the Metro producer, called the head of the story department to his office and ordered him to fire one of the studio writers immediately. "Do you really want me to fire him?" asked the story head. "You know, Harry, you're being horrible and cruel." . . . "ME horrible? Me cruel?" Rapf replied in shock. He paused and then a smile of understanding spread across his face. "Oh," he qualified with self-satisfaction, "you mean to WRITERS."

Louis B. Mayer, the film producer whose income for the past few years always has been among the highest in America, was asked by a forthright employee—who soon became an ex-employee: "L. B., are you a happy man?" Mayer pointed to the back of his neck and replied: "Well, I sometimes get a little pain back here." . . . When Mayer announced that he had received permission to take a leave of absence from the studio which he heads, one of his employees asked: "Who does he have to ask—God?"

Walter Wagner bought the movie rights to Vincent Sheean's autobiography, and with Alfred Hitchcock as his director, had the script altered so much that practically nothing remained of the original story. One of Sheean's autobiography, and Alfred Hitchcock as his director, had the script altered so much that practically nothing remained of the original story. One of Sheean's newspaper friends met Wanger and asked the producer: "Have you really changed Sheean's story so that it's unrecognizable now?" . . . "Yes," he declared. "As a matter of fact, it's more Gallagher than Sheean."

* * *

Buddy de Sylva, head of Paramount, is a baseball fan. The head of another studio suggested a plan for organizing a ball team at each studio to play night games. "Are you for it?" he asked de Sylva—who shook his head and explained: "Remember, this is Hollywood. Can you think of 18 fellows we can trust with a bat in their hands?"

Ernst Lubitsch was in Berlin at the end of the last war. Then, as now, the German civilians weren't told of the army's defeats, nor did the government-controlled press prepare them for the downfall that was inevitable. Lubitsch therefore wrote and produced 6 shows, all of which had "Victory" finales. Then, overnight, came the startling news of the Armistice. But it didn't affect the gross receipts at Lubitsch's shows, for he merely changed the theme of the finale from "Victory" to "Defeat," in which the chorus lines vowed the re-birth of their nation.

David O. Selznick is one of the busiest executives in the country. Once, when he was scheduled to leave on a plane, he dictated to his secretary during the ride to the airport. He arrived 15 minutes before the take-off and continued dictating letters. "Three more minutes, sir," he was warned. Selznick still dictated . . . "We're ready now, sir," was the final warning. Selznick rushed to the plane, still dictating, and entered the ship. Then he reappeared at the door and shouted to his secretary: "Very truly yours."

David Wark Griffith, the movie pioneer, made millions of dollars from his film ventures, but has little of it left. "Don't try to make a lot of money," he once advised a young man. "Success and money always bring a lot of tribulation. I made ten million dollars in ten years. And I spent eleven million dollars in eleven years. I'm still paying off that last million."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—It's being kept very hush-hush, but something important is brewing behind the scenes regarding peace with Japan. Highest officials won't say a word about it, not even to some of their cabinet colleagues.

Pearson

However, peace feelers which have come from the Japs have been much more than feelers — despite Secretary Grew's denials. One of them was debated by the combined chiefs of staff for more than a week. It proposed that the Japs withdraw from Korea and Manchuria and all China if (1) they could keep the Emperor, and (2) they would not be invaded.

Meanwhile, Joe Grew and the army and navy have prepared a directive outlining the minimum terms we would accept from the Japs. This is one of the most highly guarded documents in the government. However, it can be stated on high authority that the Grew peace plan would permit the Japs to retain Emperor Hirohito.

It can also be stated that there is considerable difference of opinion inside the administration regarding the Grew memorandum, and some of his colleagues inside the state department, including assistant Secretary Will Clayton and assistant Secretary Dean Acheson, are vigorously opposed.

The whole situation is in a state of flux, and anything can happen overnight.

—MRS. TRUMAN'S TROUBLES—

Some people were of the opinion that Mrs. Roosevelt was unique in her tendency to get involved in Negro controversies. However, Mrs. Truman, though first lady for just three months, already has experienced an off-the-record racial embarrassment.

The doors of the summer White House at Independence, Mo., have not been opened to a single representative of press or radio since Mrs .Truman and her daughter arrived early in June.

But not long ago, Mrs. Truman graciously made an appointment with representatives of the All-American Newsreel Company of Chicago, a Negro organization, to enter the summer White House and take pictures of Vieta Garr, the colored cook. They wanted shots of her working In the summer White House kitchen.

When this leaked to local newsmen, however, they put up such a wail that Fred Canfil, U. S. Marshal, appeared at the summer White House at 9 o'clock on the morning the pictures were to be taken, and had a talk with the first lady.

In addition to being the chief federal official in those parts, Fred was President Truman's sergeant in the last war, and a friend of the family. Just what the U. S. Marshal told Mrs. Truman is not known, but later that day the colored newsreel men returned to Chicago—without their pictures.

—WHAT GERMANY PAYS—

Completely obscured by the Big Three conference are the reparations talks now taking place in Moscow. Upon their outcome will partially depend whether Germany will be permitted to rise to power again.

Already the cards have been laid down as to what we want Germany to pay. Here is the inside story of the proposed terms:

The Soviet delegation proposed (1) That Germany pay $20,000,000,000; (2) That this be paid off in a five-year period; (3) That it be paid in the form of labor, goods and factories—the factories to be exported from Germany to other countries, not left in Germany.

The Russians also proposed that this $20,000,000,000 be divided as follows: $10,000,000,000 to the Soviet; $4,000,000,000 to the U. S. A.; $4,000,000,000 to Britain; and $2,000,000,000 to be divided among the other European war victims.

The American delegation headed by handsome Ed Pauley, the big oil and rye operator, proposed somewhat similar terms, except that the U. S. A. would receive a larger share of Nazi reparations.

NOTE—The British delegation, when called upon to give its proposals, replied that it would like to have permission to fly back and forth to London each week to consult, since it did not trust its communication lines in Moscow. Apparently Washington isn't the only place where wires are tapped.

—BUSY MR. FORRESTAL—

Insiders have been joshing Secretary of the Navy Forrestal and White House Naval Aid Capt. James K. Vardaman ever since President Truman's fishing trip to Washington State.

Truman was relaxing with Governor Mon Wallgren and Senator Warren Magnuson of Washington one day when Magnuson picked up the phone and called the Navy Department in Washington, D. C. He wanted to get Forrestal to come out to Seatle to speak at a Fourth of July celebration.

But when he asked the Navy Department for Forrestal, Magnuson was told:

"The Secretary can't be interrupted now. He's conferring with the Presidential Naval Aid."

Whereupon another voice cut in on the conversation saying:

"Then let us talk to the Presidential Naval Aid."

It was Harry Truman himself, on a phone extension. However, Forrestal's aids were not inclined to interrupt the conference with Captain Vardaman, and since neither Truman nor Maguson were in a hurry, they didn't press the matter. Thirty minutes later Forrestal called back.

"Hello, Mr. Secretary," greeted Truman jokingly, "This is the President. How come that when a United States Senator and the President of the United States telephone you, you can't speak to them because you're conferring with my Naval Aid?"

Forrestal laughed, and accepted the invitation to come out and speak in Seatle on July 4.

Let's hope that among the postwar inventions will be a combination bathtub and phone disconnector.

New Mothers Must Have Some Exercise

Having a baby and a figure, too—one with a hand-spanning waistline to match that of any young thing's in town—is a feminine triumph over Nature. But in order to put that feat across, most women need post-pregnancy exercises.

Begin exercising when you are strong enough—consult your doctor on this—and you'll find that muscles, tissues and bones will soon be back to normal. You'll agree they're worth the effort and time spent both from a health and a good-looks point of view.

As a matter of fact, many women exercise—with their doctors prescribing the routines, of course—while they are convalescing. In one New York maternity hospital, the lying-ins often have a whirl at the "monkey trot"—an exercise of walking on all fours performed by mothers anxious to lose no time in regaining youthful figures.

When baby is all of two months old and the doctor says "go ahead," they continue at home with other post-pregnancy exercises, planned to give them a strong back and a handsome carriage.

Lumbermen Hope To Use Everything From Trees

By RICHARD H. SYRING
(In The Wall Street Journal)

Portland, Ore.—Mention post-war to a Northwest lumberman, and he's apt to tell you the wood industry is going to use everything about a tree except the buzz of the saw.

Scientific lumberjacks are getting well along toward that goal. Research already assures better grade lumber for post-war houses and a lot of new products from wood. They think their discoveries will add 10 per cent more jobs in the industry.

The research has a fundamental economic reason: Timbermen are concerned about future sources of raw material. In the Pacific Northwest, which supplies almost a third of the nation's lumber, about 70 per cent of every felled tree has been going to waste. Salvaging this lost wealth is the industry's aim.

The laboratory program has produced scores of new by-products, new processing methods and new uses for wood. Some will have a wide effect on everyday living, some are still secret. Among them are such examples as these:

Boards that won't warp or crack processed by new dry-kilning methods.

Sap-free lumber, from which fats and resinous acids have been removed, eliminating discoloration of paints.

Post-war office furniture and floors as hard and smooth as oak or maple, yet light in weight. They will be made from soft woods such as fir or pine, chemically treated. This kind of lumber has been made as hard as ebony.

Tannin, Cork From Western Forests

Leather makers will get tannin from western hemlock bark. Parts of Douglas fir bark produce "cork."

Powdery, chocolate colored lignin may open a whole new field of chemical by-products. This material, which with cellulose makes up most of the woody substance of a tree, will be produced in huge quantities by the new alcohol-from-wood plant at Springfield, Ore. In the production of wood sugar (first step toward making alcohol), one-fourth of the weight of the wood is reduced to lignin. In the laboratory, lignin has been made to yield phenols and resins, important ingredients of many plastics, as well as a whole series of potentially valuable chemicals.

Researchers also are working on wood carbonization to produce carbon, sawdust plaster, yeast fodder and similar materials.

One laboratory is very busy finding ways to utilize pine needles.

Research in lumber and lumber products is carried on by three types of agencies—Federal, state and industry. Of the first, the U. S. Forest Service's forest products laboratory at Madison, Wis., has more than 700 researchers. Of the other two, the State of Oregon probably leads the nation.

In 1941, the Oregon Legislature created the Oregon Forest Products Laboratory, operated in conjunction with the school of forestry at Oregon State College. The first appropriation was $25,000. The latest is $48,370.

Last January, a group of Oregon lumbermen and other citizens formed Forestry Research Foundation, a non-profit trust. This foundation raises funds for the forest products laboratory, and holds its patents.

Industry itself is doing a big share. The West Coast Lumbermen's Association is active in research. This year the Western Pine Association, representing lumber operators in 12 states, is spending $100,000. It has a laboratory in the suburbs of Portland.

The nation's largest lumber-producing company, Weyerhaeuser Timber Co., also maintains an extensive research laboratory at Longview, Wash. It keeps any discoveries to itself.

New Dry-Kilns Cure Many Wood Woes

For nearly two years now the Western Pine Association has been experimenting with drying lumber at Bend, Ore. This improved method is secret, since patents haven't been granted, but Dr. Arthur B. Anderson, chief chemist, is not reticent in telling of the results.

The new dry-kilning process removes fats, acids, terpene and resene, the aromatic portion of resin. Lumber thus treated is dried uniformly throughout, eliminating much checking (cracking) and warping. Moisture that remains is evenly distributed, making it easier to plane or saw. Removal of resin eliminates gumming-up of sanding paper in woodworking, and discoloration of paints.

"This process alone now makes dried pine attractive for light, low-cost furniture," Dr. Anderson predicts, "and several large mail-order houses already are planning on adding this type of furniture."

The pine industry has gained by-products from the process. From each 10,000 board feet of lumber sent through the dry kiln, 60 to 80 pounds of extract are derived. This is 70 per cent fats, for soap and glycerin; 15 per cent abietic acid, for paper sizing, plastics and paints; 5 per cent free fatty acids, for soaps; 5 per cent turpentine and 5 per cent resene.

This solvent-seasoning pilot plant cost $60,000 to build at Bend. It is believed the process can be adopted by many sawmill dry kilns at a lower cost.

The dry-kilning process also prevents "bleeding" of knots in widely-used knotty pine paneling. Bleeding is the appearance of resin from the knot on the outside of the paint or other finish applied to the wood.

The laboratory also is using "weed" trees (trees of less valuable species) in pine forests for prefabricated paneling.

Wind tunnels are being tested for lumber drying at many larger mills in the Pacific Northwest. This is between air drying and kiln drying. Drying temperatures are low but a small amount of extra heat and a huge volume of air make drying many times as fast as normal.

Dose of Chemical Ends Timber Cracks

The Army buys great numbers of pontoon stringers, timbers 6x8 inches and 22 feet long, from West Coast mills. It used to reject from 40 per cent to 50 per cent of the timbers offered because of cracks that developed in the dry-kilns. Rejections have been reduced to about 2 per cent by sprinkling urea, a synthetic chemical used as a base for many plastics, on the timbers as they go into the kilns.

Within a few months the West Coast Lumbermen's Association expects to know just how its chemically-hardened Douglas fir flooring is holding up. The place where it is getting the usual wear of an office floor is a secret.

Wood is put into a retort, which is then sealed and a vacuum pump pulls air out of the wood cells. Chemicals then are forced into the cells at about 110 degrees, of heat and 100 pounds pressure to make the hardwood.

The U. S. Forest Service reports that from 5½ tons of western hemlock bark, one ton of pure tannin can be recovered. The Portland Chamber of Commerce is negotiating with several firms to start commercial tannin production.

U. S. industry uses about 115,000 tons annually and imports 51 per cent of its needs. Domestic sources are chestnut wood and bark and eastern hemlock bark. The domestic source is being depleted by a chestnut blight, and tannin is a wartime scarcity.

For several years the forest laboratory has been experimenting with Douglas fir bark "cork". Admittedly inferior to imported Spanish cork, it would be much cheaper.

BOAT REFUGE SOUGHT

St. Ignace—A meeting to discuss the construction of a breakwater and a small boat refuge for St. Ignace was held in the Legion Hut Tuesday afternoon with Col. Allison Miller of Detroit presiding.

The meeting was well attended by local businessmen and fishermen and a good deal of enthusiasm was manifest for the building of a breakwater to run from a point slightly west of ferry dock No. 1 in a northerly direction for approximately 1,000 feet across Moran Bay.

This would effectively protect the inner bay from all easterly winds that now play havoc with docks and anchored boats in this area, and would form a well protected small craft harbor.

JUNIORS BIRL AT EPHRAIM

To Introduce Logrolling At Regatta Tuesday At Resort Town

Log-rolling, or birling as it is also known, is to be introduced at the annual regatta at Ephraim, Wis., next Tuesday, July 24.

An invitation to send a number of Gladstone girls to the Wisconsin resort city was received recently and arrangements have been made whereby Mary Jean Malott, woman's champion, and four junior birlers, including Scout champion David Engstrom, Robert Bizeau, Mark Buckman and Morris Siebert will display their skill at the regatta.

Soren Johnson is taking the birlers to Ephraim on his power cruiser, Nautilus. They will leave Gladstone Monday afternoon.

One of the turned logs used locally in roleos has been shipped to Ephraim by truck.

All four of the youths participated in the amateur roleo held in Gladstone July 4.

Press Q&A Service

What do you want to know? We will answer questions on any subject not involving extended research. Legal or medical advice cannot be given. Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, and (IMPORTANT) MAIL THIS COUPON and a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to Service Bureau, 1217 Thirteenth St., Washington 5, D. C., for a personal reply. Don't telephone: write as directed.

Q. Does a serviceman's pay stop when he is in the hospital?

A. No, it does not, unless his illness or injury is the result of his own misconduct.

Q. My husband is a M/Sgt. and draws a rental allowance of $37.50 for me and I receive an allotment check each month of $125. Couldn't he apply for the Family Allowance now? I've read that men in that grade may have it if they wish.

A. If you have children the soldier would benefit financially by cancelling his rental allowance and drawing Family Allowance. He may not draw both, and he has the choice of which one he wishes to have in effect. If you have no children, drawing rental allowance is the better financial arrangement.

Q. I have filed application under the Emergency Maternity and Infant Care program and have been accepted. Now my husband has been commissioned; does this cancel my approved application?

A. No, it doesn't. As long as your husband held a grade of Private, Private First Class, Corporal or Sergeant at the time your application was filed, you are eligible for the hospitalization under that plan, and your baby is entitled to the pediatric care for the first year.

Q. What does von mean in German names?

A. It was originally merely a preposition literally meaning of or from. Paul von Hindenburg literally meant Paul of or from Hindenburg.

Q. Which floats easier, a fat or lean person?

A. The fat person floats more readily because fat is lighter than muscle and bone, and in proportion to size a fat person is lighter than a lean one.

Q. When was Tom Mooney sentenced to death and when was he pardoned?

A. He was sentenced February 24, 1917 and his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment soon afterwards. Gov. Olson of California granted him a full pardon Jan. 7, 1939. He died March 6, 1942.

Q. Do moth millers eat fabrics?

A. No, because they have imperfectly form mouth parts, but they should be destroyed as they lay the eggs which produce the destructive moths.

Q. What kind of soil does Snow-on-the Mountain like?

A. Fertile soil for best growth, but most showy on poor ground in a sunny location.

Jet Propulsion To Revolutionize Postwar Aviation

Washington—Jet propulsion has brought aviation to the threshold of a virtual revolution, Dr. Edward Warner, leading aernonautical engineer and vice chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, said here.

If research is continued in the nation's great aeronautical laboratories, the application of what will be learned in the single year 1946 will save $10,000,000 to $20,000,000 dollars of airline operating costs each year when the aircraft designed in 1946 are flying, Dr. Warner declared, speaking as guest of Watson Davis, Science Service director, on the CBS program "Adventures in Science."

"To realize the full advantages of jet propulsion, "Dr. Warner explained, "it is necessary that wings be both thinner and more rigid than in the past. It is necessary that the whole airplane have a much higher smoothness and polish of the surface than manufacturers have generally thought it worthwhile to provide. Relative fuel consumption will become even more important than in the past. It is the tendency of the new power-plants to be very wasteful of fuel, and a relatively small saving there may have a great effect upon the weight left for military loads or passengers.

"Since extremely high speeds require that a large load be carried on each square foot of wing surface, these airplanes will have to be designed to land at very high speed, and airports and their light and radio aids will have to be arranged to permit such high-speed landings. Distances required to leave the ground will be long in some cases, and the use of auxiliary rockets to accelerate the take-off may become common."

USE WEATHER BALLOONS

Marquette—A window in the U. S. Weather Bureau office, Federal building, is being enlarged to serve as a doorway to permit the use of large size, 100 gram balloons for weather observation, H. B. Cowdrick, chief observer, said yesterday.

The 100 gram balloons ascend at the rate of 1,148 feet a minute, while the 30 gram balloons, now being used, ascend only 600 feet a minute. In 30 minutes the large balloons climb five and a half miles, compared with four miles or less for the smaller balloons.

In Occupied Germany (AP) — There is no doubt but that it is far better to be occupying conquerors of a defeated land than to be its residents—but that does not necessarily make the former position an enviable role, as thousands of doughboys are learning daily.

It isn't just a business of wanting to be back home.

One thing which a few days travelling through contested parts of Germany brings home is a constant physical reminder of destruction on every side.

You cannot escape it and pretty soon it begins to pall on you to a point where you become almost morbid about it. It is not, as one soldier put it, that Germany did not have that destruction coming. Nor is it a feeling of pity towards the German people.

Perhaps it is rather that few American soldiers have anything but a hatred for the destruction of war in any form. And having been forced into a position of being destroyers they now wish they could forget it since the shooting has stopped.

But they cannot. Driving along you see city after city composed almost solely of skeletons and rubble. Entire metropolitan areas, once housing millions, have been reduced to ghost towns without inhabitants or signs of life.

It is even worse for men who are quartered in such cities. There are other sensory reminders of what war does. Nobody seems to know just how long the "smell of death" lingers, but recently I have driven through cities where fighting ended five and six months ago but where that odor still poisoned the air.

Even after you leave such a zone, it sometimes seems days before you get that smell out of your nostrils.

Doughboys see, hear and smell other things which combine to keep them from forgetting what and how much a conqueror must destroy to be successful. It is not an easy thing to accept mentally—especially if a man has been trained since childhood to consider such spreading of death and destruction a sinful thing.

Add to that the fact that the life of an occupying conqueror always is a lonely one.

If GI's are constantly conscious of destruction wrought on a foreign country, then it is obvious that people whose homes are destroyed are many times more sensitive on that subject. They resent the conquerors and more than anything else they resent the occupation troops.

That resentment may not immediately translate itself into any sort of dangerous action. But it is there all of the time just the same.

Electronic Device Aids Blind Workers

Canton, Ohio—Blind civilians, with the use of a new electronic precision gaging device, are able to inspect with accuracy the outside diameters of roller bearings, in a plant of the Timken Roller Bearing Company here, to determine if they are the exact size required. Three notes from a loudspeaker on the back of the operator's chair indicate whether a bearing passing through the measuring device is of correct size, oversize or undersize.

Diameters of rolls, cones and cups for precision bearings, are ground within very close limits of their specified sizes. Each part is then checked for size by operators using electrical or mechanical dial-type indicators. These indicators show any variation in the diameter of the work-piece being checked. Parts with diameters over or under the specified size limit, or parts out of round, are readily detected and removed.

WOULD IMPROVE WPA HIGHWAY

Indian Lake Resorters Want Short Cut Road Repaired

Resort owners in the Indian Lake vicinity are soon to petition the board of supervisors to take the necessary steps for the improvement of a three-mile stretch of road along the southeast shore of the lake connecting Sunset beach with Harrison and Copenhagen beach, according to information given out recently.

This bit of highway was built several years ago as a WPA project to serve as a shortcut between these two areas, but no provision has been made for its maintenance and in its present state it is little more than passable.

Resort owners in that area state that if something isn't done soon to put the road in a proper state of repair it will not be passable at all.

This highway has been found particularly valuable during the busy season when one resort operator, unable to accommodate tourists could direct them to neighboring resorts along the lake.

At the present time, when such situations arise operators in one sector can only direct these tourists to take the long and circuitous route that leads them to town and back to the lake. The average tourist doesn't like to backtrack, resorters claim, and as a result, instead of following such instructions they travel on to some other resort area.

The matter will be presented at a meeting of the board of supervisors some time in the near future.

The road, by the way, has no official designation on maps of the county, but its possibilities as a scenic highway have been generally recognized.

News From Men In The Service

While in action with the veteran 25th Division on Luzon Island in the Philippines T/5 Harold Boucha, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Boucha, Engadine, has been promoted to sergeant.

A veteran of 24 months overseas service, including the 25th Division's battles in the northern Solomon Islands, Sgt. Boucha has been in action for more than five consecutive months on Luzon where the 25th Division fought the Japs on the Central Luzon Plains and led the fierce ridge by ridge fighting which resulted in the fall of Balete Pass and the town of Santa Fe, successive southern entrances to the vast Cagayan Valley.

A former student of the Engadine high school, Sergeant Boucha was employed by Motor Products Corporation, before entering the service in January, 1943.

T-Sgt. Vernon L. Johnson Jr., is back home with an honorable discharge gained through the acquisition of enough points to have helped three or four of his buddies win that objective.

Vernon Johnson

His record reveals that he had participated in 50 missions over Europe, spent three and one - half years in the service, has a Croix de Guerre citation, a Purple Heart medal, an air medal with nine clusters and a good conduct citation. That is for the European conflict. In the American theater of war he garnered an ETO ribbon, four bronze stars and a presidential unit citation and cluster.

He arrived at his home in Manistique Sunday.

TO ENTERTAIN RETURNING VETS

Legion Will Fete Boys Returning Home From Service

Servicemen, home on leave, furlough or discharge, will be guests of honor at a party at the new American Legion hall on Walnut street Tuesday evening.

The purpose of the get-together is purely social, Roy Anderson, post commander states. "We want the returning vets to come, get acquainted with members who are vets of this and World War I, and to learn to feel at home in our quarters," he adds.

Letters have gone out to men whom Legion records show to have discharges, but because these records are incomplete, discharged veterans are urged to come whether or not they receive a letter. Men home on furlough should also consider themselves invited.

While the Legion was organized by veterans of World War I and its present membership is largely composed of men of that experience, many discharged veterans of the present war have joined and a number of officers of the local post, including the post commander elect, are veterans of World War II.

It is felt that there will be a heavy postwar demand in Europe for our all-wheel-drive military trucks for use in reconstruction.

Softball Association To Dedicate New Lighted Field Tonight

GROCERS PLAY N.L. ALL STARS

Speaking Program Begins At 8:30 At New Diamond

The Escanaba Softball association's new diamond, equipped with lighting installation for night games, will be dedicated this evening with an exhibition game between the Dagenais Grocers, leading team of the American league, and an All Star lineup selected from the National league. The game will begin at nine o'clock and will be a nine-inning affair.

Preceding the game there will be a parade of the players in uniform, starting at 7:30 o'clock at the Delta hotel corner, and proceeding west on Ludington street to the junior high school. Players are expected to report at the Delta Hotel not later than 7:25 p. m.

BRING PET BATS

Players with the All-Stars team in the feature game are asked by their managers to bring along their favorite bats when they go into action against the champs.

At 8:30 o'clock a dedication program will be held at the diamond, located adjacent to the state fairgrounds. Denis McGinn, well known Escanaba attorney and softball booster, will give the dedication address. Members of the board of control of the softball association also will talk briefly and Manager Ray Johnson of Dagenais Grocers and Co-Managers Fred Boddy and Earl Haddy of the National All-Stars will be introduced.

Starting Lineup A Secret

The first ball will be tossed out by Pfc. Cliff Beaudin, now home on furlough, a former player in the city softball leagues, who lost a leg in action in Germany.

The starting lineup of the All Stars remained a tight secret yesterday, but the co-managers issued a statement that Windy Winchester would probably start on the mound for the Nationals and that his battery-mate, Toodles Flath, will be the receiver. Homer LaCosse also will get into action on the hill for the All Stars.

The National leaguers selected to play in the exhibition game tonight follow: Deloria, C. Anderson, Hank Brown, Windy Winchester, Homer LaCosse, Wally Hubert, John Holland, Fred Gardner, Ed Gravelle, Francis McGovern, Toodles Flath, Rene Sabourin, A. Anderson, Fred Boddy, John Bellefeuille, Stan Jensen, P. Way, V. Boyle, Phil Sullivan, Joe Gardner, Ray Morin, Winky Curtis, R. Holmes, B. Peterson, J. Parent and Roy Johnson.

The Dagenais will use three pitchers, starting with Bill Doucette, who will hurl three innings, followed by Job Anderson and Tom Elegreet, each pitching three innings. The remainder of the starting lineup will be Paul Vardigan, short fielder; Keith Morin, second base; Tom Dufour, Jr., first base; Bud Boudreau, left field; Melvin Bertrand, third base; Ray Ethier, short stop; Clarence Sovey, centerfield; John Schwalbach, right field; Albin Hanson, catcher.

This lineup will play six innings, after which the following lineup will be substituted: Glen LaChapelle, short field; Ray Gangstead, center field; Dale Wood, catcher; Charles Weber, shortstop; Bob Smithwick, first base; Joe Strand, second base; Bill Menard, left field; Ray Johnson, right field; Bud Bourdeau, third base.

Officers of the softball association are urging all players in all leagues to join the parade, beginginning at the Delta hotel corner. Cadet and Midget league players are especially urged to turn out.

CUBS LAG, 10-4 IN 8TH INNING

Chicago, July 20 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers, paced by Dixie Walker's five runs-batted-in today led the first-place Chicago Cubs 10-4, in a game suspended at the end of the eighth to permit the Brooks to catch a day-coach train for St. Louis.

The game will be finished Sept. 15 when the Dodgers make their next Wrigley field appearance.

Walker's homer and two singles paced Brooklyn's 13-hit assault on four Bruin tossers. The Dodgers bunched five hits, including triples by Stan Bordagaray and Ed Basinski, in their six-run fifth which broke a 1-1 deadlock.

Starter Seats got in trouble in the fifth when he issued four passes and walked across two Cub runs. He was relieved by Buker, who got Andy Pafko to ground out with the bases loaded and two out. In the next three innings, Buker allowed two hits, one an eighth-inning triple by Mickey Livingston.

The Dodgers had one hour to change and catch their St. Louis train.

SENATORS CUT DETROIT'S LEAD

League Leaders Drop Pair In Washington, 4-3 And 3-1

Washington, July 20 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers executed a triple play tonight but they lost a doubleheader to Washington's Senators, 4-3 and 3-1.

Dutch Leonard and Roger Wolff knuckleballed the Senators back into the first place contention, the twin victory cutting Detroit's lead to three games over the second place Senators.

Leonard made a one-run lead stand up from the fourth inning in the twilight game while Wolff mastered the Tigers with four hits in the nightcap.

BLACK CAT DID IT

Washington, July 20 (AP)—The league leading Detroit Tigers defended their dugout tonight against a black cat.

The kitten suddenly darted into the field during the first inning of the second game of a doubleheader.

It scurried across the diamond and headed straight for the Detroit dugout as 20,000 fans excitely watched it.

Up leaped the Tigers, waving their arms to shoo the cat away. It disappeared into a hole just beyond the dugout.

Yes, you might say that the Tigers are superstitious.

But even though they scared away the jinx at the beginning of the second game, they had hard luck the first set-to, losing 4-3 to the Senators.

The Tigers' triple play was the first made here since 1943.

With George Case on second and George Myatt on first in Washington's half of the seventh inning of the second game, Gil Torres smashed a liner toward right field off Pitcher Walter Wilson.

Eddie Mayo made a leaping catch of the drive, threw to Skeeter Webb, doubling Case off second and Webb's quick peg to Rudy York beat Myatt back to first for the third out.

The last triple play made in Griffith Stadium was made in the final game of the 1943 season between the same clubs. That time Washington executed it.

Wild Boston Sox Pitcher Aids Win By White Sox, 6-3

Boston, July 20 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox took advantage of Clem Hausmann's wildness in the third inning today to start a five-run rally and go on to a 6 to 3 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

The Red Sox got a run in the fifth when Jim Wilson doubled after Bob Garbark singled. Boston scored again in the sixth on a double by Camilli and a single by Pete Fox and for a third time in the ninth on a single by Johnson, a double by Skeeter Newsome, and Garbark's long fly.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

The Escanaba Softball association has reached a cherished ambition with the installation of a lighted softball field and it has reason to feel proud of the fact that tonight the first lighted softball diamond in the city's history will be dedicated, with appropriate ceremony. There are other lighted fields in the peninsula, quite a number of them, in fact. Escanaba's lighted diamond, however, has been realized primarily by the perserverance, the ambitions and the sweat of the players themselves. It is a notable achievement, and the entire sports public owes a debt of gratitude to the men whose stick-to-it-iveness has made this important contribution to the recreational life of the community possible.

* * *

The new field is one of the finest to be found anywhere. The lighting installation has been scientifically designed and is guaranteed to provide ample illumination throughout the entire field, without shadows. The job of the Escanaba Softball association, however, is not yet completed. It is planned to construct adequate permanent bleachers and enclose the park with cyclone fencing later. This will require considerable money, which the association proposes to raise by its own efforts. Softball fans can assist by being generous when the collection plates are passed.

* * *

The importance of a lighted field is especially apparent at this stage of the softball season. The evenings are getting shorter each day and even now on cloudy days, darkness occasionally overtakes the teams before a game is completed. This condition will grow increasingly worse as the season progresses until by mid-August, it will be virtually impossible to complete a seven-inning game that has been started at seven p. m., unless the game has been played unusually fast. Efforts to move the starting time of games up a quarter of an hour or a half hour generally have proved unsatisfactory because too many players cannot be available before seven o'clock.

* * *

The lighted diamond, of course, does not mean that local league softball games will not be played on the other, unlighted diamonds in the city. On the contrary, the Royce Park diamond and the No. 1 and No. 2 diamonds will continue to be used, but the feature games will be assigned to the lighted diamond. The cost of operating the lighted field will be a factor in its usage, since it will require from $8 to $10 worth of electricity for each game, which must be paid by the softball association. Thus it is obvious that the night games must become least self supporting through collections taken at the games. In the past all but tournament games have been available to the public without charge, or without collection.

SOFTBALL

The White Birch diamond ball team will play the Buckeye Night Shift team at the yacht harbor diamond in Gladstone 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

A double-header will be played.

MIDGET LEAGUE

The entry from Royce Park in the Midget softball league is the Wildcats. The personnel of the team includes the following:

Joe Shedore, captain; Tom Norton, manager; Harold Cloutier, Don Guimond, Joe Norton, Jim Valentine, Tom Shedore, Jack Laundre, John Shedore and Tom Gregory.

The Wildcats lost to the West End Juniors, 32 to 5.

DISBANDED

The Royce Eagles, formerly an entry in the Midget softball league, have broken up. Several of its personnel are now with the Wildcats. The Royce Eagles lost their opening game to the Webster Sluggers, 18-5. The HobNobs also defeated them, 42-0.

Golfdom Unknowns Shine In St. Paul

St. Paul, Minn., July 20 (AP) — The comparative unknowns in golfdom took over the major portion of the glory in the opening round of the St. Paul open today, led by a five-under-par round of 67 fired by Leonard Dodson of Kansas City, Mo.

Dodson, who won the Oakland open and finished second to Byron Nelson by one stroke in the Tam O'Shanter tourney in 1941, scored a prosaic one-under-par 35. He was under par on the third, 11th, 12th, 13th and 18th holes. Matching regulation figures on the others.

Martin Takes A Short Cut Along The Sports Trail

By WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, July 20 (AP)—Caught short:

Maryland race tracks plan to move in horses by barge to counter-act the ODT ban on travel by rail and truck, and a Pacific coast track visions air travel for the nags after the war, thus giving horse flies a new meaning. It's tough enough picking winners without wondering whether your choice is seasick or airsick. Some of them seem to be landsick, though, so it doesn't make much difference.

A baseball player being scouted usually has a terrible day, but Al Mele, slugging Syracuse outfielder, is a recent exception. with Bob Quinn of the Boston Braves in the stands to look him over, Mele connected for a single, double and a grand slam homer. See what happens when you eat your spinach, kiddies?

* * *

The St. Louis Cardinals seem to be getting a little panicky as the Chicago Cubs continue to make themselves at home in first place. The Cards brought up a young pitcher from Rochester, and there are rumors they might acquire the venerable Charley Root.

The Brooklyn Dodgers have found a new way to win games. They just outnumber 'em. A Dodger pitcher seldom finishes, but Skipper Leo Durocher just keeps pouring new men out there on the mound until the batters are dizzy. When a guy bats against right handers, left handers, knuckle ballers and screwballers in one afternoon, he gets a liberal education.

* * *

Surprised to learn that Wallace Wade has decided to forsake football coaching to devote his time to directing sports and physical education. He'd become part of the American football scene, with his teams annually right up there in the Blueblood Class. His decision breaks up one of the keenest friendly rivalaries. The Duke-Tennessee game was as much a battle between Wade and Bob Neyland as between their teams, and with Carl Snavely returning to that sector a three-way battle between three of the better veteran coaches was in prospect. However, you can't blame Wade much. The strain on a football coach is terrific. The alumni doesn't demand that a physical education director be fired because the boys couldn't do their chin-ups.

* * *

The New York Yankees, as expected when Larry MacPhail took over, have moved into new offices, and from what we hear they really are something. What effect that will have on the team is problematical. The Yankees have turned out some pretty fair teams the last couple of decades from the drab, drowsy headquarters on 42nd St. where you could walk in and sit for an hour on a frayed old leather lounge with the only sounds the clicking of a ticker and the muffled clatter of traffic, and not see anyone but Ed Barrow's barber hurrying to a waststand to mix a lather for the boss' daily shave. Anyway, when the team doesn't do so well in the future MacPhail can say: "I know. But you ought to see our offices." That'll hold 'em.

Sixth Place Browns Whip Yanks Twice, Back In Flag Race

New York, July 20 (AP)—St. Louis swept both ends of a doubleheader from the New York Yankees today 4-3 and 3-2, to move back into the thick of the American League pennant race despite their sixth place standing.

Home runs by Sig Jakucki and Boris Martin, each with a man on, sealed Al Gettel's doom in the opener after the Yanks had taken a 2-0 lead. Jakucki smashed his round tripper in the fifth after Mark Christman singled and Martin belted one into the lower left field stands with Christman on base in the seventh.

The Brownies were outhit in both games by New York, making five hits count for the first decision, 4-3, and using only six blows for the 3-2 nightcap verdict, winning the tilt in the eighth without a base blow. Walks to Don Gutteridge and Mike Kreevich, George McQuinn's sacrifice and Vern Stephen's outfield fly scoring Gutteridge did the trick, snapping a 2-2 tie.

DEALING SLOW FOR STOCK LIST

BY VICTOR EUBANK

New York, July 20 (AP)—Individual recovery tendencies continued in today's stock market although numerous leaders were neglected at moderately lower levels and dealings were among the slowest of the year to date.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off .1 of a point at 64.8. Only 820 issues appeared. Of these, 324 were up, 293 down and 203 unchanged.

Pacific Tin made a new 1945 top by 3-8, apparently reflecting the better outlook in the Far East. Ahead were Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, N. Y. Central, Southern Railway, Douglas Aircraft and Boeing.

Losers included U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Santa Fe, General Motors, Goodrich, Anaconda, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, International Harvester, United Aircraft, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Electric Power & Light and American Water Works.

BONDS IRREGULAR

New York, July 20 (AP)—The bond market was irregular today with sales the lowest for any day's dealings since July 20, 1942.

Volume totaled $3,290,000 compared with $5,010,000 Thursday and $3,174,000 for July 20, 1942.

Carriers advanced .1 of a point on average in the Associated Press compilation, with Baltimore & Ohio, Central Railroad of New Jersey, Katy, Missouri Pacific and some Northern Pacific issues following the upward trend. Recording decreases were Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 6s, down 5, and most Lehigh Valley, St. Paul and Rock Island liens.

Industrials declining included Standard Oil (N. J.) 3s, Childs Co. 5s of '57, down 5½, and Sunray Oil 3 3-4s.

Reflecting a rise of .1 of a point on average in utilities were American Telephone & Telegraph 3s, Consumer Power 3½s and Pennsylvania Power & Light 3½s.

Among foreign government obligations advancing were Denmark 6s, and Peru 7s, while loans of Buenos Aires, Brazil and Argentina were lower. U. S. governments were quiet and steady.

RESTAURANTS IN RATIONING STEW

20% Rationed Food Cut Causes Part-Time Closing Here

A 20 per cent OPA cut in restaurant allotments of rationed foods for July and August has the restaurant business nationally in a red-hot stew, and is causing some local establishments to close their doors part-time to keep within the limitation.

Washington will be visited shortly by a delegation of restaurant proprietors asking that the rationed food allotment be increased to three red points per customer per day, or one red point per person per meal. Local restaurant managers say this would be about right to meet present needs, without serving foods high in ration value.

In Escanaba, Miss Belle Bodette of Belle's Coffee shop said that because of the reduction in rationed foods her eating place will be closed each Saturday for the remainder of July and through August unless additional points are permitted.

'Right now one hungry working man ordering food enough to keep him going to the next meal will eat all of the rationad food we are allotted for one customer for the whole day," Miss Bodette said. "About three red points per customer per day would be about right."

Mostly Meatless Meals

E. J. Kallio, proprietor of the Coney Island restaurant, said that his establishment has been closed Sundays for two years. For the past two weeks, since the food cut, it has been closing each night as well, and for daytime meals only meats low in point value are being served.

"If we didn't do this we would have nothing to serve in the daytime," he added.

Old hands in the restaurant industry say the new meats-fats quotas mean they can serve only about .40 of a point of meat per customer, after allowance for butter or oleomargarine, for cooking fats, and for unavoidable losses in food preparation. This compares with 50 red and 50 blue points a month for each person who eats at home—theoretically 90 meals.

Under these conditions most of last week's menus in the restaurants of the nation were composed largely of dishes composed of spaghetti, hash, salad, and eggs—combined with diminishing dashes of meat and cheese.

Blaney Park Hit

Blaney Park, one of the Upper Peninsula's outstanding recreation places, is experiencing similar difficulties. In a letter to George Bishop, secretary-manager of the U. P. Development Bureau, H. Harold Earle wrote:

"We are finding ourselves in a most embarrassing predicament at Blaney Park. Our accommodations are pretty well filled and are reserved until Labor Day or after. We have less experienced help than usual because more help is not available, although our people are willing and doing the very best they can under the circumstances.

"Our usual sources of supply of foods of various kinds do not seem to be able to supply us adequately and as a result we practically always have someone scouring the country looking for poultry, eggs, potatoes, or something else. There are times when the supply of immediately available fresh fish is quite inadequate. We have plenty of difficulty in stretching our allotment of ration points, of course. But also we have as much difficulty in obtaining unrationed foods.

"We have a first obligation, of course, to provide food for our regular vacation guests who are staying at Blaney for periods of a week or more, and who have reserved accommodations in advance. We also have an obligation to overnight guests who use such accommodations, when they are available, and expect to obtain a meal or two at Blaney.

"We are finding that the guests who are at Blaney Park overnight or longer constitute all that we can take care of under the combination of circumstances. We are therefore having, most reluctantly and, we hope only temporarily, to advise tourist guests and those who come to Blaney Park just for meals, that we are unable to serve them."

New Transport Ship Will Be Produced

San Diego, Calif.—A newly-designed 30-passenger domestic postwar transport plane, to be built here by the Concolidated Vultee Aircraft Corporation, will combine passenger comfort with operating efficiency. In this new Convair design, designated as Model 110, speed at low cost, safety and complete comfort for travelers are incorporated. It is expected to reduce airline operating costs to a minimum.

The new Convair will be a low-wing, twin-engine monoplane with a cruising speed of 275 miles an hour, at least 95 miles an hour faster than the twin-engine transports in common use by domestic airlines today. It will have a maximum speed of over 300 miles an hour. With a gross weight of 32,300 pounds, it will be able to carry an 8,000-pound payload of passengers, mail, express and baggage.

HERE'S THE FLASHER!—New railroad safety light. Boys Get Probation For Placing Spikes On Railroad Track

Because they placed railroad spikes on the rails of the North Western railroad near Pine Ridge west of Escanaba and damaged other railroad property, six boys ranging in age from 7 to 16 have been given probationary terms by Juvenile Court Judge William J. Miller.

The molestation and damage of railroad property occurred over a two-week period. Once a telegraph line was broken by a rifle bullet. Another time a railroad switch light was broken, and last week six large spikes were placed on the rails.

Fortunately the spikes were found on the track and removed by the North Western roadmaster before a disaster occurred. Railroad men told officers that the spikes could have caused derailment of a fast train.

The incidents were investigated by Deputy Sheriff Emil Johnson and Special Agent Schultz of the North Western railroad. Deputy Johnson was named probationary officer for the boys, and they must report to him periodically during their probation terms.

The Escanaba farm market will open at 7 o'clock this morning for the first time this year, with fruits, vegetables and flowers for sale. The market is located on First avenue north in the 800 block.

The market is late in opening this summer because unseasonably cool weather has delayed the crops.

Farmers from Delta county and a portion of Menominee and Dickinson counties have in past years brought their produce to the Escanaba market for sale. The market is maintained by the city as a service to its citizens and to the farmers.

Special appointment blanks will be available for blood donors at places to be later designated and it is urged that as many citizens as possible between the ages of 18 and 50 who are acceptable as donors fill and return the cards. The clinic is jointly sponsored by the Alger county chapter, American Red Cross.

"THOSE RATIONING BLUES"

My meals are meatless, my tea it is sweetless,
Even biscuits are wheatless, and how!
My bed it is sheetless and sox almost feetless,
I'm getting more eatless each hour.

My car wheels are tireless, my furnace is fireless,
My radio's wireless a wreck;
My evenings are lassless, cause my car is gasless,
My pants almost seatless, oh heck!

My mattress is tuftless, my pants legs are cuffless
And my income now takes a trimmin'.
There's a ceiling on rent, much sugar has went
But thank goodness they can't ration women!

Now shirt tails are shortened two inches or more;
To contemplate that leaves me cold.
I've got to stop now and push my shirt tail down
For you see my tale now is told!
